The City of Riverside, Parks, Recreation and Community Services Department Digital Inclusion Program aims to provide deserving families with access open computer labs and introductory technology courses. This program addresses the disparity between those who have access to computers and high-tech devices and those who do not; also known as the "digital divide." Under general direction, the Instructor will provide beginning computer courses at various locations throughout the City. (Upon satisfactory completion of the beginning computer course, qualifying students are given a free refurbished computer system for home use) .Qualified Instructors will organize and deliver lesson plans to participants as well as maintain a functioning computer lab with as many as 15 computer systems. The Digital Inclusion Program takes place at 10 park sites (Bobby Bonds, Bordwell, Bryant, Hunt, La Sierra, Nichols, Reid, Villegas, Dales, and Lincoln).
